

HOMESCHOOL HIGH SCHOOL

cheatsheet

Presented by Abby Banks

MOM'S ROLE

- > Since your role will change from providing intensive instruction to being a mentor and cheerleader, what steps do you need to take in your homeschooling to make this transition happen smoothly?
- > In what ways can you start to transition your role from primary instructor to mentor and guide?
- > What benefits do you see from a changing role?

TEEN'S RESPONSIBILITY

- > Do you consider your teen an active or a passive learner?
- > What steps can you take to encourage your teen to take a more active role in their education?
- > Are your curriculum choices encouraging independence from your teen?
- > How can you keep your teen accountable for their work, yet encourage independence?

KEY TIPS

- > Choose curriculum written directly to the teen.
- > Set up systems to keep track of responsibilities (check out Trello).
- > Create a basic homeschool high school plan before your kids are in high school.
- > Find a transcript template and include it in a high school binder.
- > Task your teens with record keeping in high school. (Points earned / Points possible = Percentage grade)

BENEFITS

- > Teens miss out on negative school experiences and being disciplined in a secular worldview
- > Opportunity for stronger family bonds
- > Ability to create a customized high school experience tailored to your teen's passions and goals for the future
- > Flexibility to pursue employment, apprenticeship, internship, dual enrollment
- > Real-life opportunities for community interaction and positive socialization
